Jay H. Shidler is the founder and managing partner of The Shidler Group, a Honolulu-based commercial real-estate investment company. Since 1971, The Shidler Group has acquired and manages over 2,000 properties in 40 states and Canada. Shidler has founded and invested in over 20 public and private companies. During the past 15 years, he has been the architect and founder of five public companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Shidler is an active supporter of a number of educational, cultural and charitable organizations. In 2006, Shidler donated $25 million to the UH College of Business. His gift to UH was the single largest donation made by a private donor.

Alex Adamovich is involved in a wide range of Asian investments and has offices in Hong Kong, Shanghai and Sydney. Previously, he ran the principal investment division of Peregrine Investment Holdings Ltd., managing well over US$2 billion worth of investments and achieving an IRR in excess of 35% on investments he made. Between 1988-1994, Adamovich established Strategic Assets International Limited, where he engaged in several successful pre-IPO investments. Before moving to Hong Kong in 1979, he was a lawyer at Freehills, and built one of the largest privately-owned liquor chains in Australia. Adamovich has a Bachelor’s in Economics and a Diploma of Education from Sydney University and a Master’s in Laws from the London School of Economics.

Peter Ho is president and chief banking officer of Bank of Hawaii and is a member of the bank’s managing committee. He serves on the boards of Bank of Hawaii Corporation and its primary subsidiary, Bank of Hawaii. A native of Honolulu, Ho also serves on the boards of the Rehabilitation Hospital Foundation, the American Red Cross (Hawaii), the Hawaii Foodbank, The Nature Conservancy of Hawaii, Teach for America - Hawaii, Special Olympics of Hawaii, the Historic Hawaii Foundation and the Hawaii Community Foundation. In 2003, Ho was named Pacific Business News Young Business Person of the Year.

Mark Dunkerley joined Hawaiian Airlines as the president and chief executive officer in 2002 and added Hawaiian Holdings to his responsibility in 2005. Previously, he was the chief operating officer of the Sabena Airlines Group located in Brussels, Belgium. Dunkerley worked in the aviation industry as a consultant with the Roberts Roach firm, was president, chief operating officer and a member of the board of directors of Worldwide Flight Services, and worked for British Airways in a variety of management positions. He has a M.Sc. in air transport economics from the Cranfield Institute of Technology and a B.Sc. in economics from the London School of Economics, both located in the UK.

Will K. Weinstein, money manager and former partner in two very successful investment banking firms, currently leads a post graduate summer course, “Integrity and Ethics in the Real World,” at the UH Mānoa William S. Richardson School of Law and the Shidler College of Business. This is Weinstein’s tenth summer teaching the course, introducing special guest speakers to the University and helping to make this conversation series available to the public.

For a full list of Will Weinstein Conversation Series lectures, visit www.shidler.hawaii.edu/weinstein.